WELCOME TO THE EFIM WEBSITE NEWSLETTER

We would like to extend a warm welcome to everyone and an invitation to join the EFIM on-line community. This Newsletter will bring you updates and information on the new EFIM website and links to some important aspects of the site. The new Website was launched in May 2014 during the European and

Swiss Congress of Internal Medicine in Geneva. EFIM is committed to building an on-line community for Internal Medicine that will ensure that the conversations that start at the Conferences, Schools and Meetings of EFIM continue long after everyone has gone home. The website is a reference point for EFIM events and activities and allows users to personalise their experience for tailored delivery of news and feeds from forums or discussions. We look forward to welcoming you into the EFIM online community.

WELCOME

EFIM was founded in 1996 to bring together the national societies of internal medicine across Europe. The purpose of EFIM is to re-emphasise the importance of internal medicine in patient care in a world of increasing specialisation. The purpose of the new website is to develop the EFIM community through Secure Forums, Working Groups and raising the profile of the EFIM Fellowship program. The site provides improved access to EFIM activities including the Conferences and Schools, providing up-to-date E.U. news and seamless access to EJIM in a fully personalised way.

Opportunities to submit CASE REPORTS TO EJCRIM

The European Journal of Case Reports in Internal Medicine is an official journal of the European Federation of Internal Medicine (EFIM).

The journal wants to promote the practice of internal medicine in Europe. Its aim is to provide a forum to internal medicine doctors.

EJCRIM welcomes papers describing unusual or complex cases and case series that an internist may encounter in everyday practice. Case series are also welcomed as long as they demonstrate the appropriateness of a therapeutic approach or unusual manifestation of a disease.

The journal would also consider brief reasoned reports of issues relevant to the practice of Internal Medicine, as well as Abstracts submitted to scientific meetings of European societies of Internal Medicine.

EJCRIM is peer-reviewed with single-blind review and freely accessible to all

YOUNG INTERNISTS INVITE YOU TO JOIN THE COMMUNITY

Here at the Young Internists we are very excited about the new EFIM website and all the opportunities it opens up. Whilst admiring the new look, we have been busy transferring picture galleries and updating information about our group – and we very much enjoy the feeling of being part of the main EFIM website. We think this reflects the strong position of our group within EFIM and are grateful to be an integral part of an organisation that values and respects the opinion and contribution of physicians in training. We are working hard to use the new space on the website for what Young Internists need: information about our group and the opportunities on offer for young physicians, such as the schools, congresses and the exchange programme. We hope that in time, the site will become a place where Young Internists share and compare their experiences of being an Internal Medical trainee in different parts of Europe, where educational material is shared and where people come to exchange ideas and network... So please register for the new website, check out the fora and if you have anything you would like to contribute and share – or any ideas for developing the website further - please let us know! Summary of the EJIM (Editor: Prof Pier Mannucci)

The European Journal of Internal Medicine (EJIM) is the official journal of the European Federation of Internal Medicine (EFIM), and is the leading journal for the European internist, covering all aspects of internal medicine. The journal is devoted to promoting the science and practice of internal medicine in Europe. To this end, the journal publishes original scientific articles, review articles, editorials, case reports, short communications, and other information relevant to internal medicine and related fields. Of particular interest to the internist are manuscripts on "Internal medicine in Europe" and "Education in internal medicine". The journal also publishes news and articles concerning the activities and policies of the Federation, as well as those of national internal medicine societies.

The journal is published 10 times a year. All papers submitted to the EJIM are reviewed by an international Editorial Board and Board of National Representatives. Authors are invited to submit a paper for publication and submission to this Journal proceeds totally on-line. Via the journal webpage, you will be guided stepwise through the guidelines to prepare your article, and the creation and uploading of the various files.
