Research proposal from FADOI (Italy)

With the advent of new media and digital tools in healthcare management, the internist physician is the primary reference figure to lead the change towards the best citizen/patient empowerment.

While there is a broad consensus that the use of digital tools on a large scale would significantly improve the empowerment of the citizen/patient, however, to date, an appropriate assessment of the relationship between physician empowerment and citizen/patient empowerment has not yet been made in the current evolutionary scenario of national and international digital health care.

A questionnaire will be proposed to European Internists, designed to evaluate the use of digital tools by the internist to facilitate patient empowerment which revolves around three dimensions, such as patient knowledge, patient control, and patient participation.
