2021... settling after the tsunami

2020 has seen an unprecedented increase in submission, and therefore had the chance to be more selective.

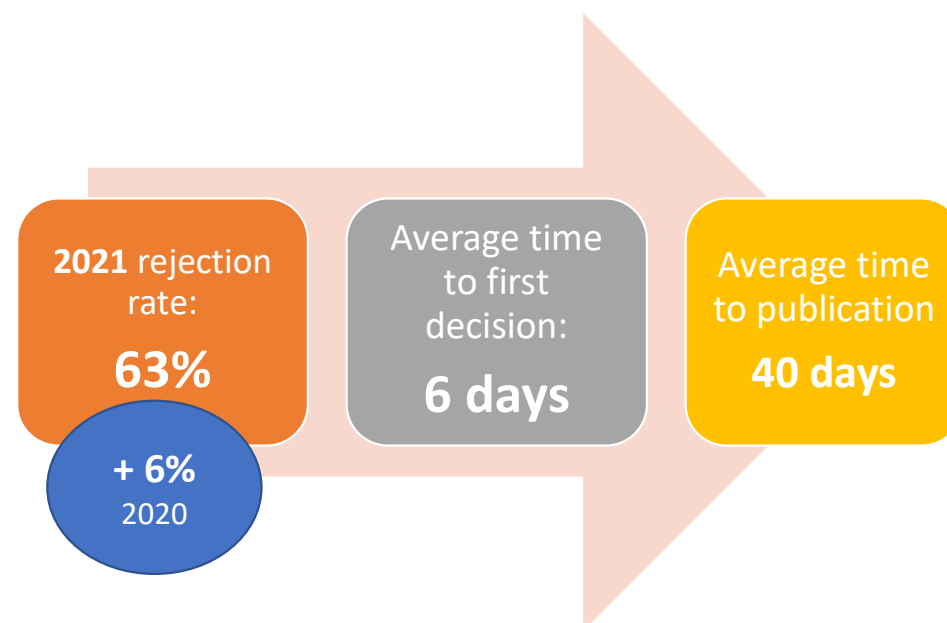

Are COVID-19 articles still relevant for science?

- 18% of 2021 submissions were COVID-19-themed.
- Case reports on this topic, once novel, are now often mere repetition or speculation
- In 2022 we are accepting even less COVID-19 cases.

Publication data and performance

	2018	2019	2020	2021
Issues	12	12	12	12
Articles x issue	8	9-12	> 20	~ 20
Submitted	162	343	658	615
Accepted	78	162	264	227
Published	84	184	292	221

Looking ahead

Credibility vs profitability

- In the last few years we had an increase in submission, which lead to a natural increase of rejections – and work!
- When the number of rejections increases, our credibility increases as well. Most journals boast a high rejection rate, which means that articles are carefully selected for quality reasons.
- However, EJCrim does funds itself via APCs. To reject more from a bigger pool of manuscripts, it also means to lessen our income, as costs are not sufficiently covered.
- Shall we increase the publication fee to 280/300 euros+ VAT?

Editor's issues:

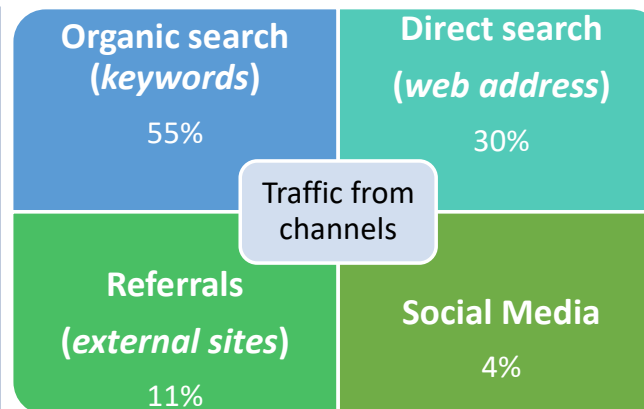

- Learning points: why is this “rare” event important?
- Anything with a section/chapter on it in a standard textbook is NOT “rare”
- “To the best of our knowledge” implies an exhaustive search of the literature
- Titles should be written so that a Google search will find them
- Frequent contributors:
 - How many rare conditions does one doctor see in a lifetime?
- Keep it simple and short, and relevant to Internal Medicine

EJCRIM is not a «small journal» anymore.

Welcoming new features for further development:

- A collaboration with EFIM Academy... our authors could be selected for a talk for the Home of Medicine Podcast
 - Themed Collections
 - Webinars and educational programmes
 - Hospital Grand Rounds, with new hospitals
- A series of four short, curved yellow lines in the bottom right corner, arranged in a diagonal sequence from bottom-left to top-right.
