Dear colleagues and friends,

It is with a great pleasure that we invite you to come to Ede, The Netherlands, in June 2018 to attend the European School of Internal Medicine Summer 2018. The European School of Internal Medicine was born in 1998 from a proposal from the Spanish Society of Internal Medicine. The primary goal was to promote good quality continuous medical education for young internists from our member societies. Second, and no less important, was to make the School a meeting point for European residents - a place for exchange and friendship. Young Internists who are towards the end of their training in Internal Medicine are selected and sponsored by their national societies to attend the School. Central theme this year will be Internal medicine in Harmony, in which the following topics will be included:

- Sonography for the internist
- Patient safety
- Multidisciplinary work in harmony
- Clinical reasoning
- Basic problems in Internal Medicine
- Patient care in a virtual world

For more information and registration: www.esim2018.com
We hope that you can join us in Ede in June 2018!

Director: Prof. Rijk Gans

Co-directors: Dr Hein Muller, Dr Jan Willem Elte, Prof. Nicola Montano, in internal medicine. We had clinical lectures, interactive case presentations, and a practical ultrasound workshop. There was also a strong emphasis on the emerging global issues affecting all internists –for example, ageing populations, antibiotic resistance, physician burnout, patient safety and resource allocation in the global recession. There were sessions on cognitive reasoning, cognitive bias and errors in decision making, which I found particularly enlightening. The

The curriculum was far more diverse, however, than purely topics in medicine. There was an emphasis on generic skills required to be a more effective doctor. For instance, we had sessions with a voice coach who watched our case presentations and provided feedback about how to present more effectively to audiences. There was a session with a drama coach who advised us on how to use body language and verbal skills to relate to patients, peers and scientific audiences. There was even a mass saxophone tuition session, designed to emphasise the importance of working together in harmony. As well as being light-hearted and enjoyable, these sessions actually provoked the most reflection for me in the days after the course as they reinforced simple learning points that were made evident in real-life situations.

...better doctor – reflection, new cognition, presentation skills, teamwork, and work-life balance. It was certainly one of the most rewarding experiences of my professional career to date, and I am extremely grateful to the RCP for the privilege of attending. I strongly encourage other trainees to apply.
