Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) – Short Notice for Public

submitted by Aneta on 25 February 2020 - 13:25

Coronaviruses are important human and animal pathogens. Common human coronaviruses are responsible for approximately one-third of mild to moderate community-acquired upper respiratory tract infections in adults, like the common cold. This information should not be confused with Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19). COVID-19 is the third coronavirus outbreak following the SARS (Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome) and MERS (Middle East Respiratory Syndrome) outbreaks in the 21st century.

WINTER NEWSLETTER

Dear EFIM Colleagues,

The last few months were difficult for everyone. We were doing our part to assure the control and ultimate defeat and prevention of COVID-19. EFIM Executive Committee organised several webinars and held the 1st Virtual General Assembly successfully approving several important items.

We were glad to have all our members present during the General Assembly discussing all important issues concerning the future activities of EFIM.

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

With the holidays approaching I would like to take the opportunity to look back at 2020 one more time in our winter newsletter. 2020 is the year when the COVID-19 pandemic forced the whole world to stop, to confine and re-confine after the summer to assure the control and ultimate defeat and prevention of COVID-19. The year 2020 was particularly challenging for all the internists in Europe and worldwide assuming a crucial role in the prevention and care of the COVID-19 patients in a variety of healthcare settings.
